Children have always played with toys but the toys children used to play with in the past were different to the toys you play with today.

Over the next few lessons, we will be finding out about toys from the past. How could we find out what toys from the past were like? Who could you ask about old toys?

Your challenge!

Before next lesson, can you ask one older person at home or at school what they used to play with when they were younger?

Who do you think you could ask?
