

only deport the Windrush generation but many others causing a drop in population.

Do any of you remember chapter 56 of the British Nationality Act 1948? It states that 'Every person who is under this act is a citizen of UK and its colonies... shall by the virtue of that citizenship have the status of a British citizen. According to this rule, the Windrush generation are British citizens. Jamaica is part of UK's colonies so why are this generation facing deportation? There was a man called Mr McIntyre and lived in this country for decades. However after paying taxes, he found himself homeless. How? It is because you deemed him a non-British citizen. Something you had no right to do!

As you can see, people are unhappy with the way you are treating this generation. It's time for you to take action. I am speaking on behalf of many who want these people to be treated with the way they should be. People like Paulette Wilson. Please start to change things. For everyone else they will be here. Don't make them be forgotten.
