On this day...

William Friese-Greene, a British photographer and inventor of cinematography, died in 1921. Friese-Greene constructed a camera for taking a series of photographs on a roll of perforated film moving intermittently behind a shutter, the basic principle of a motion-picture camera.

Did you know...

Back in 1905, popsicle (known as ice lolly) was accidentally invented by a 11-year-old boy called Frank Epperson.
